Claims Rejected

The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. See In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent is shown to be commonly owned with this application. See 37 CFR 1.130(b).

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

Claims 1-28 are rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-42 of U.S. Patent No. 6,589,128 B2 and over claims 1-39 of U.S. Patent No. 6,679,799 B2. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentable distinct from each other because they claim the same subject matter but differ in only in scope. The differences between the inventions defined by the conflicting claims are that the claims in the application are broader than the claims in the patents. The patents effectively claim a subset of the application claims, thus the claims of the patents are incorporated into the claims of the application. The reason why a person of ordinary skill in the art would conclude that the invention defined in the claims at issue is an obvious variation of the invention defined the claims in the patents is because the subject matter of the patent claims are fully disclosed in the application, thus one of ordinary skill would conclude that the more narrow patent claims would be within the scope of the application's claims.

Prior Art Discussed

The examiner has considered the references cited by Applicant in his Information Disclosure Statement filed January 20, 2004. None of the references, taken either in combination or individually, show all of the features of the claimed invention.
